PTS Consulting EMEA, October 2009:

PTS Consulting joins panel of experts at Corning Data Centre Seminar

On 15 October 2009, Chris Frazer, Principal Consultant at PTS Consulting joined other industry authorities on a question panel at a technical Data Centre seminar in London run by global fibre optic cabling manufacturer Corning Cable Systems.

The event was for professionals involved in the design, operation and management of Data Centres. Prominent vendors gave a series of presentations to address critical issues facing today's IT managers, from next-generation Data Centre design to energy-efficient, future-proof solutions. Over 100 delegates watched the presentations given. Other topics included: Extreme Density for the Data Centre; and, the Cabling Media choice for tomorrow's Data Centre.

Following the presentations, PTS Consulting, Corning and other opinion leaders from companies including Cisco, Redstone and CST were able to answer a series of questions on future technologies and what should be considered when organisations begin to seek to implement them.

Chris commented: "PTS Consulting is always happy to attend events like the Corning Data Centre seminar. As an independent consultancy, PTS will always have a view of new solutions coming over the horizon and what it will mean for the organisations that hope to implement such technologies. The suppliers also find it particularly helpful to hear an objective opinion on new product development. We noted that of particular interest at this event was 100 GB over fibre and the implications it will be likely to have from a cabling and active equipment perspective."
